

Dr. Lalit Prasad Aggarwal
M.S. (Duck), D.D.M.S. (Dundee).
D.O. (Oxford) is at present Lecturer in Ophthalmology in Aggr. Medical College.
He appeared for his M.B. before me in 1949. I found him an exceptionally bright and clear headed. His grasp of the subject was superb.
He possesses an acute sense of clinical observation and is mentally alert. His work in the Aggr. College is again being judged by me as <sup>an</sup> evidence of his M.B. Students. He is a fine teacher of his subject and is spoken of very highly by his Professor. He is in charge

I have known Dr. Lalit P. Agarwal, M.B. (Luck), D.O.M.S. (Eng.), D.O. (Oxon), M.S. (Ophthal) for more than seven years, both as senior lecturer at S.N. Medical College, Agra and as Reader in Ophthalmology at the G.S.V.M. Medical College, Kanpur. He is an honest, conscientious and hard working young man with plenty of zeal and enthusiasm in him. He has been a brilliant post-graduate student with enviable record. He has a wide and up-to-date knowledge of his subject.

He is a fine research worker and has a proud record of publications, having published more than 45 original research papers in the standard journals of the world. He was an invitee to XVII International Congress of Ophthalmology held at New York in 1954 and one of his original research paper was included in the programme of the conference. He is a contributing editor of 'Ophthalmologica', an International Journal of Ophthalmology, which I consider as a rare distinction, though a fitting recognition of his research talent. He has been quoted in several advanced text books of Ophthalmology, particularly meant for the post graduate students.

He is a fine surgeon and deals with his patients with sympathy and affection. In all branches of the subject, he exhibits outstanding talent. He is an excellent teacher of his subject and as a Head of the department at this college has shown outstanding organisational power. He is very popular among the students, colleagues, subordinates and officers. He is of amiable temperament and a pleasant colleague to work with. I have no hesitation in testifying that he is a learned young Ophthalmologist, specially devoted to the teaching and research side of the subject.

He has my cordial good wishes for the future

Dr. L.P. Agarwala, MB.(Luck), DOMS.(England), D.O. (Oxon), M.S.(luck.), Lecturer in Ophthalmology in this College has been working since October, 1950. In such a short time he has proved a hard and conscientious Ophthalmologist with an initiative. He is popular with students, staff and the patients. He has a cheerful disposition and a pleasant colleague to work with. I strongly recommend him for the post of Readership in Ophthalmology at Lucknow.

Dated, August 1, 1946.

I have known Dr. L.P. Agarwal, from the beginning of his medical career to this day. In every field I have found him to be outstanding. He is a keen student, a good speaker, a good social worker and above all has the real clinical acumen. He is just the type of young man who will prove a successful teacher.

I have every praise for his character and nature.

Dr. L.P. Agarwal, M.B., M.S., D.O.M.S. (Eng.), D.O. (Oxon), has been working at the Agra Medical College and Hospital since 27.10.1950 as Senior Lecturer in Ophthalmology and Ophthalmic Surgeon. He is next to the Professor and Head of the Department and has officiated him during his absence.

Dr. Agarwal possesses an up-to-date knowledge of the subject, and engages himself in large volume of research work. He has published a number of papers, and is on the Editorial Board of 'OPHTHALMOLOGICA', an international Journal of Ophthalmology. This is indeed a fitting recognition of his research work.

His work and conduct have always given me satisfaction. He is one of the best teachers of my College, and is respected by the students, and is popular among the staff.

Dr. Agarwal bears an excellent character.

I have known Dr. Lalit Prakash Agarwala & his family fairly intimately from his childhood. All along I have watched his academic career with interest and concern. He impresses me to be an intelligent young man of amiable disposition & winning manners. I have got a high opinion of his integrity and responsibility. In my opinion he is just the type of young man who could safely be entrusted with any responsible work.

It gives me great pleasure to certify that Dr. Lalit P. Agarwal, M.B. (Lucknow) D.O.M.S. (Eng), D.O. (Oxon), M.S. (Istn) has been steadily working in this department as a Lecturer in Ophthalmology for the last five years. During this period I have found him a keen, conscientious hard working young man full of energy and enthusiasm. He is an excellent research worker, having published more than 35 original articles in the standard journals, during the five years, & has been appointed a member of the editorial board of 'Ophthalmologica' a journal of international repute. He is a good teacher and a fine
